Dear Friends of the Accordion,

If you are reading this letter, you have certainly passed the test---you are still conscious. On the attached flier, so brilliantly designed by Paul Pasquali, you will have noticed you are the featured artist for the April 1st meeting. This flier is only half tongue-in-cheek; half for the reason that it is April Fool's Day, half for the reason we will be sponsoring another open-mike night. At our last open-mike night, we had a great display of our homegrown talent. Club members have demonstrated incredible talents in various categories of music. For Monday, April 1st, the club board members are asking that all members consider bringing a tune or two to play for the membership. Two of our eminent members, Eileen Benavidez and her duet cohort, Yvonne Mueller, have already graciously volunteered.

At our last meeting, we heard the jazz sounds of Steve Keen and Carol Turcotte. Steve, a club member, has played for us in several musical genres. This is the first time he has joined with Carol to entertain us. Steve has the neurons of a well-modeled computer and the fingertips of a masseuse. When used in tandem, he commands the music waves of any keyboard. Carol demonstrated feathery light sounds coupled with deep sonorous tones, which when combined, approached the complexity of Ella Fitzgerald. If anyone was unable to purchase one of her CD's at the last meeting, she has a website where they are available.

If you are still conscious after reading this far, I would like to reiterate our open-mike night at our April 1st meeting. All you need is one or two short tunes and a venturesome spirit. In addition, Paul Pasquali deserves an April Fool's prank from any number of our members---a banjo/tuba duet readily comes to mind!

Our next club meeting will be held at Kowloon Café at 6:30pm on April 1st. We look forward to your tunes and talent at that time.

"Keep Squeezin"
