Dear Friends of the Accordion,

What a confusing week the Wasatch Accordion Club board members experienced just prior to our last gathering. We were rendered the “Floosey Flaw-flaws” by the regional Belly Pinchers Cartel. What are the chances a single board of any organization can double book two highly acclaimed accordion acts for the same evening. Only under the auspices of Marasco and his Keystone Squeeze Boxers (no offense to Jockey or Fruit-of-the-Loom) can this even remotely occur; but it did. Steve Keen and Curtis Woodbury kindly stepped aside to let West Coaster Ron Borelli entertain our club for the evening.

Ron performs with many prominent orchestras as well as for private, corporate and public events. He is a featured artist on many CD releases and is well respected in the music community. Ron graciously traveled from his home in San Mateo, CA, to play for our club. Ron performed in his typical fashion--professionalism with comfort and flair. Out of thin air he seemed to pull Italian, American songbook, standard jazz, gypsy jazz, classical, polkas, and oldies rock music. Toe-tapping, finger snapping, and even head banging was quite evident.

This was a highlight performance for our club. Kudos to our Italian friend from the hilly peninsula central to California and just east of the Pacific waters!

Come December 8, the Wasatch Accordion Club has, once again, been invited by Accordions International and Maestro Paul Pasquali to partake of our annual Christmas Party. All members who want to are invited to play one or two brief Christmas pieces at our gala event. This will be a pot luck dinner – please bring a favorite dish to share. It will be our responsibility to make certain all food remains in the warehouse. No food or drink should be present in the showroom due to the close proximity of instruments, music, and electronics. Please remember it is our responsibility to abide by these requests. Also, board elections are approaching rapidly. Please think of candidates for president and secretary you would like to see run for office.

We look forward to seeing you at Accordions International, 1760 South 450 West, Monday, December 8 at 6:15pm. Keep your bells a-jingling, spread holiday cheer, for Santa is watching and the elves are quite near!!!

Keep Squeezin,

Dave Marasco

PS – Enclosed is a dues form should you need it to hand in at Christmas Party
